Harding's Keynote Thunder "Old Stuff" to Reporter Bryan

Democracy's Champion Ex-Candidate Listless and So Is Convention as Orator Paints G. O. P. "Promised Land."

By HEYWOOD BROUN.

Chicago, June 7 .- Senator Harding's ing his keynote speech at the opening the paternalists and Federal fertilizer to the farmers in competition with private enterprise is the great constructive offering of a Democratic majority. America, the Senator said, proclaimed justice and loved peace, and we are not too proud to fight for them. Turning to economics, the Senator pleaded for a return to the protective tariff policy. He chose, he said, "the senator processes and the processes of the protective tariff policy, which sends the American Policy which sends the Policy Pol tariff policy. He chose, he said, "the conomic policy which sends the American workingman to the savings banks our fellowmen." And added, "God forthe horrifying sacrifice of millions of bid that we should boast a prosperity wrought in such waste of human life!"

Later he was applauded vigorously by a portion of the huge audience in the Coliseum when he said: "One must ing in its tendency. Worse, it is the gold sluiced from the river of blood poured out by the horrifying sacrifice of millions of our fellow men. God forbid that we should boast a prosperity wrought in such waste of human cataclysmal sorrow of the Old World."

en feet behind Harding sat Willsumed that Bryan would not have enjoyed listening to wholesale condemnation of the Democratic party. Perhaps there was a shade of grimness about his mouth while the speaker assailed the Administration's policy in Mexico, but as the address trailed on and on through the silence Bryan smiled. We had seen the same smile once before. Ty Cobb, who, like Mr. Bryan, horns in as a reporter on important occasions, grinned in just that way as he watched Fred Snodgrass chase a fly during a world's series game.

If the orator failed to please his audience it was not for want of trying-Except for the Democrats, he seemed to have not an enemy in the world. In particular he adored words. Many persons are still puzzling over what Harding meant when he said, "I shall not say that it is ours to have the greatest navy in the world, but noting the elimination of distance and the passing of our one-time isolation, we ought to have a navy that fears none in the world."

Delegates to the Republican National Convention may be interested in the following figures: In 1908, in the guings Bryan took few notes on the bernatorial election, New York State, W. Hughes ran habind the rest of the convention. He did it very softly. One could see that he was speaking, because his bosom rose and fell.

Senator Harding was warmly greeted when he took the platform. He began with a plea for harmony. Possibly his most telling statement was "I do not believe that there is a really roactionary Republican hearing credentials to this convention." Boies Fenrose, who sat within ten feet of the platform, hurriedly looked in his inside pocket to see if he had lost anything. Maybe he was worried about his railroad ticket. At any rate, whatever he sought was there, and the convention went on.
